In Gratitude for a wonderful Christmas concert:

Thank you to everyone who made the Christmas Concert such a big success. Thank you to the talented musicians, music director, and singers. We also wish to thank the people who decorated the hall and all those who helped with the collation after the concert. Many thanks also go to everyone who came to hear the concert and to enjoy the beautiful music.

2009 Catholic Conferences—Save the Date: The 2009 Boston Catholic Men's Conference will be held on Saturday, April 18, 2009. The 2009 Boston Catholic Women's Conference will be held on Sunday, April 19, 2009 (Divine Mercy Sunday). Both conferences will be held at Boston College's Conte Forum. We are grateful to BC for hosting the conferences for the second year. Registration is now open. It would be wonderful if the Catholic Community of Saugus had a large presence at these conferences. Please call either rectory and register that you plan on attending. Cost of tickets is $35.00 per person. Exact schedule of each day will be made available soon.

We welcome into our Blessed Sacrament Parish the following new additions who were baptized on December 14:

Kameron Arthur Joseph Conroy
Isabella Aurora Franciosa

And at Saint Margaret Parish, welcomed into the Church on December 21:

Finn Margaret McCabe

the peace and quiet that come from being in the presence of the Lord. All welcome. Please note there will be no adoration on New Year's Eve, December 31. Join us again, January 7.

"Be still and know that I am God."

Parish Pastoral Councils, Parish Finance Councils, and Parish Staffs of Both Blessed Sacrament Parish and Saint Margaret Parish will be beginning the New Year with meetings on Wednesday, January 7 and Friday, January 9 (both evenings will begin at 7:00 p.m.) at the Saint Margaret Parish Hall. Our key topic will be "What can the two Parishes do better together than apart?" We have been in conversation with Mr. Bernie Swain, a native of Saugus, to be our facilitator for this process. He brings many years of experience in facilitation. He will be both informative and challenging. The day will come when Saugus will most likely have only one priest serving the community. This makes pastoral planning a very important priority. Please keep all this in your prayers.

The United Parish Food Pantry is at the Cliftondale Congregational Church, 50 Essex Street. On the last Sunday of each month Blessed Sacrament collects food for the food pantry. On the second Sunday of each month Saint Margaret collects food for the food pantry. Volunteers are also needed. If you are free on Friday mornings, you are needed. Drop by the Pantry at 9:00 a.m. or call Carol Cashman (781-233-9460) to volunteer. The Pantry is open Fridays from 9:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. The next Food Collection Weekend for Blessed Sacrament is December 27 and 28. The next Food Collection Weekend for Saint Margaret is January 10 and 11. Your donation of food is always needed. Kindly look at the expiration date on your food donation. Food items that have gone beyond the expiration date may not be given out. They can only be thrown out! Thank you for your cooperation, understanding and your generosity.

FAITH FORMATION

Drawing Closer to God Through the Church

Beginning next month, Steve Dalton will present a five-week Catholic formation course as a complement to the Arise program. The course will be offered on Saturday mornings beginning January 10 until Saturday, February 14 from 8:30 to 10:30 at Blessed Sacrament Parish Hall. (There is an extra week to serve as a snow date.) The course will be introductory in nature and should nicely complement the Arise program. Thus, the target audience will primarily be those who have already participated in the first Season of Arise, as well as those who intend to begin Arise in February. Of course, everyone from the community -- especially those in active ministry (e.g., Eucharistic ministers, lectors, RCIA leaders, CCD teachers, etc.) are most welcome as well. Here is the Course Outline:

Drawing Closer to God Through the Church

Week 1: "Encountering God's Goodness"

Week 2: "Incarnation: The Word Became Flesh"

Week 3: "Salvation History: Life Really Is Going Somewhere"

Week 4: "Gospel Power: The Message of Jesus"

Week 5: "The Church, Our Home"

Week 6 will be a snow date, just in case one (or more) of our sessions must be canceled due to inclement weather.

Course instruction will be drawn from the Bible, the Catechism of the Catholic Church, and from several key documents from Vatican Council II.

Participating in this course is a wonderful gift you give yourself at the beginning of the New Year. Everyone is encouraged to take full advantage of this faith formation opportunity. Steve is man of deep personal faith and is an excellent teacher. Those who have participated in his previous courses will attest to this. The course is free of charge.

ST. PAUL CENTER FOR BIBLICAL THEOLOGY

Our True Home

Why did Jesus choose to become a baby born of a mother and father and to spend all but His last years living in an ordinary human family? In part, to reveal God's plan to make all people live as one "holy family" in His Church (see 2 Corinthians 6:16-18). In the Holy Family of Jesus, Mary and Joseph, God reveals our true home. We're to live as His children, "chosen ones, holy and beloved," as the First Reading puts it. The family advice we hear in today's readings—for mothers, fathers and children—is all solid and practical. Happy homes are the fruit of our faithfulness to the Lord, we sing in today's Psalm. But the Liturgy is inviting us to see more, to see how, through our family obligations and relationships, our families become heralds of the family of God that He wants to create on earth. Jesus shows us this in today's Gospel. His obedience to His earthly parents flows directly from His obedience to the will of His heavenly Father. Joseph and Mary aren't identified by name, but three times are called "his parents" and are referred to separately as his "mother" and "father." The emphasis is all on their "familial" ties to Jesus. But these ties are emphasized only so that Jesus, in the first words He speaks in Luke's Gospel, can point us beyond that earthly relationship to the Fatherhood of God. In what Jesus calls "My Father's house," every family finds its true meaning and purpose (see Ephesians 3:15). The Temple we read about in the Gospel today is God's house, His dwelling (see Luke 19:46). But it's also an image of the family of God, the Church (see Ephesians 2:19-22; Hebrews 3:3-6; 10:21). In our families we're to build up this household, this family, this living temple of God. Until He reveals His new dwelling among us, and says of every person: "I shall be his God and he will be My son" (see Revelation 21:3,7).

marriage vs. cohabitation: Is There a Difference?

Can a relationship be like a test-drive? That is what writer and economist Jennifer Roback Morse wonders in a reflection on cohabitation (living in a sexual relationship with someone not your spouse). Many people argue that it is only sensible to “try out” living with someone before committing to marrying them. You wouldn’t buy a car without taking it for a test-drive, right?

But Dr. Morse points out the obvious: “Here’s the problem with the car analogy: the car doesn’t have hurt feelings if the driver dumps it back at the used car lot and decides not to buy it. The analogy works great if you picture yourself as the driver. It stinks if you picture yourself as the car.”¹

Dr. Morse knows what she is talking about. She and her husband lived together before marriage. While their relationship survived, most cohabitators are not so lucky: fewer than half will marry, statistics indicate.² And if they do marry, they are nearly 50% more likely to divorce.³

Cohabitators seem to be setting themselves up for unhappiness. The sad thing is that many people cohabit because they have experienced the tragedy of divorce and are trying to avoid it. But cohabiting doesn’t protect anyone from heartbreak.

The chances of being dumped are far higher among cohabiting couples than among married couples.⁴ The test-drive analogy already indicates the tenuousness of the relationship. What the “driver” is saying to the “car” is, “You act like you’re married; I’ll act like I’m shopping.”⁵

The Cohabitation Risk

In fact, not only does cohabiting increase your chances of break-up, it also decreases your odds of experiencing the personal benefits that come with marriage. Married couples are happier, healthier, wealthier, and have more and better sex than the unmarried.⁶

Both women and children are more likely to be abused in cohabiting environments than in marriage. “In general, the evidence suggests that the most unsafe of all family environments for children is that in which the mother is living with someone other than the child’s biological father. This is the environment for the majority of children in cohabiting couple households.”⁷

And about 40% of cohabiting households have children. Even when it is the biological parents who are cohabiting with children, the situation is not likely to be stable; 75% of children in cohabiting households experience the trauma of parental separation, compared to around 33% of children in married households.⁸

Cohabiting = A Habit of Not Trusting

The fact is, marriage isn't just a piece of paper. It is a reality that changes those who enter into it whole-heartedly. What is it that makes marriage so different? The answer is easy: commitment.

When a husband and a wife have a lifelong commitment to one another and to the children that God wishes to send them, then they are living a different relationship than the cohabiting couple is living. A married couple is living a committed relationship. And it turns out that commitment to another makes us happy and fulfilled. We are made for self-giving love.

In reflecting on her own story, Dr. Morse ruefully reports that cohabiting is no way to teach yourself to be generous in love. "No one can simulate self-giving. Half a commitment is no commitment. Cohabiting couples have one foot out the door, throughout the relationship. They rehearse not trusting."⁹ Any habit, especially a habit of the heart, is hard to break. It is unrealistic to expect to stop on a dime and suddenly be able to commit to a life-time of love when the "right person" comes around.

God's Love Energizes Our Love

Fortunately, God understands us better than we understand ourselves. While we are not able to change ourselves, He can change us. He has given us the sacraments to inject His strength and love into our lives.

In the sacrament of Reconciliation (Confession), God forgives our sins and gives us grace to persevere in loving well. The sacrament of the Eucharist feeds us with Jesus's own Body and Blood, so that we can be true members of His body, the “Human freedom finds its deepest realization in the marriage covenant. The world tells us that freedom means avoiding all commitment but the truth is the opposite! True freedom is the ability to unite your whole being in choosing what is good, without any constraint.”

Mary Healy, *Men and Women Are From Eden*¹¹

Church, and embody His love in the world. And the sacrament of Matrimony provides us with the grace to live out the commitments made in the wedding vows.

“Perfect Love Casts Out Fear”

In his first epistle, St. John writes, “There is no fear in love, but perfect love casts out fear” (1 Jn 4:18). Ultimately, most people cohabit out of a fear of the future. What if this relationship does not work out? Living together instead of marrying seems to be the easier way.

But in relationships, as in so many other things, victory goes to the brave, not the timid. Real love trusts the beloved person and places all hope in the grace of God working through the sacraments.

The bishops of Australia have commented on the fundamental link between sex and trust: “If one or both persons are not yet ready to say ‘I give all that I am, including my body’ and ‘I accept from you the gift of all that you are, including your body,’ then they are not ready for sex. If a couple do not fear becoming a real gift to each other, they should not fear marriage.”¹⁰

Becoming a real gift to another person—sounds a lot better than being the used car returned to the lot. ☺
