Join us as we dig deep into our Christian faith and ask the questions “What are the Tests that God wants us to pass?” And “What does God want us to learn as we journey in our Christian walk?”?

About Jennifer Keitt

JENNIFER KEITT reaches over 1,000,000 women weekly with one simple truth: “There is hope...you can be victorious over life every day!” Women globally are empowered and inspired by her ability to encourage them to live confident, powerful lives. Author of the book, The Power Of Being A Real Woman, she has earned honors for her contributions to the lives of today’s women as the creator and host of the Today’s Black Woman Radio Show.

Ms. Keitt graduated from the University of Alabama at Birmingham as a broadcast journalism major then turned her love for reporting into a radio show that would make a difference in the lives of women across the country.

The Today’s Black Woman Radio Show debuted in December of 1991 in Chicago, and motivates women daily on a myriad of relevant topics—including, but not limited to—motherhood, relationships, financial success, self-esteem building and health and beauty tips. Jennifer is a highly sought after speaker impacting the lives of people everywhere she goes. She produces an e-newsletter, which inspires thousands of subscribers throughout Europe, Africa and the Caribbean.

Jennifer, her husband Tony, and four sons live in Atlanta.

I attended Jennifer’s workshop in September and was blessed by this dynamic speaker. Her bible based approach to presenting God’s word and the tests that God wants us to pass multiplied my understanding about my faith. I felt that my faith walk was strengthened. All women should attend this workshop.
